

A skeleton construction promises maximum flexibility in the room layout. Ductile areas can also be specifically formed in the frame construction, which is flexible in case of an earthquake. This requires extremely rigid resistant connections. These requirements are met by the GSA-H knot. In combination with hardwood it convinces with minimum space requirement, high rigidity and attractive aesthetics.

more infos